AGITO

Hair artist Jake Thompson and photographer Fumi Eguchi collaborate to create the ultimate in texture and movement.

Resembling the silky buds of a pussy willow branch that bends and dances in the breeze, Agito—which literally means “I move” in Latin—grants viewers a surreal look into the future of textured hair. “What started out as simple layering to give the hair fullness and bounce, has evolved into slide-cutting, chipping, notching and razoring effects that produce a dizzying array of textured hair designs,” says Jake Thompson, co-owner of Lunatic Fringe in Salt Lake City, Utah. “For Agito, we took this one step further by imagining the future of texture, a bold feathery finish that’s accentuated by color and augmented by wind.” (LunaticFringeSalon.com)
